Epilepsy Awareness

This Epilepsy Awareness and Administration of Emergency Medications Training is aimed at those working with persons diagnosed with Epilepsy who have been prescribed medications for administration during seizure activity. Examples of people who attend this training are healthcare workers, education staff, bus escorts, employers or employees who work alongside a person with epilepsy, community workers in both private and voluntary sectors and facilitators of extra-curricular activities in the community.

In these professions, it can be common to be caring for or supporting a person with epilepsy and the aim of this training is to ensure that the professionals in attendance develop a greater understanding of epilepsy and know how to correctly administer Emergency Medications.
